Swindled Even in Ice.

Now They Are Accused of Perjury,

Swindling and Jugglery.

Swindling and Jugglery.

When John Y. McKane and ex-Justices of the Peace Richard V. B. Newton and "Kenny" Sutherland are released from prison, they may have to stand trial for swindling, perjury and unlawfully jugging accounts. Niper & Vaughan, or lirebzity, made a discovery to-day that this Gravesend trio, while at the head of the Hygienic Ice Company, of Coney Island, defrauded many creditors with faise reports. Notes were floated for thousands of dollars and many raised.

Niper & Vaughan represent Herbert S. Worthley, who was appointed by Justice Gaynor as receiver for the ice company. The corporation was organized by John Y. McKane, Newton and Suthersland. McKane was President. He persuaded S. Stryker Williamson to Join the enterprise. Mr. Williamson to add the content of the Hygienic Ice Stryker Williamson to Join the enterprise. Mr. Williamson had nothing ted do with the funds.

tice Gaynor as receiver for the ice company. The corporation was organized by John Y. McKane, Newton and Sutherland, McKane was President. He persuaded S. Stryker Williamson to join the enterprise. Mr. Williamson had mothing is do with the funds.

McKane advertised falsely that the stock had been paid in and the capital was $25,000. Not a penny of the stock was paid in, unless Mr. Williamson invested money in the enterprise on the strength of McKane's statements. The Company, or rather Newton and Sutherland, raised money for operating expenses. McKane, it is said, used the tunds of Gravesend to build the plant. He owes many thousands of dollars to thus in New York for machinery.

Everything purchased and every dollar expended by McKane, it has been false pretenses. Until McKane was sent to Sing Sing, none of the creditors larged to press their claims.

The last report made out by the excent on Jan. 1, 1884, showed that New-con, Sutherland and himself had about 400,000 in the assets of the Company, McKane, Newton and Sutherland, it is illeged, committed perjury in every report they made.

Lawyers Niper & Vaughan will visit McKane in Sing Sing, but hope to get far y little information.

MRS. HOUSE IS INSANE.

Had Eight Husbands and Was Divorced Three Times.

(Special to The Evening World.) TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 4.-A jury o twenty-four men and a commission of three m.n. appointed by order of the three m.n. appointed by order of the Court of Chancery, has adjudged Irene A. V. House insane and incapable of taking charge of her own affairs.

Mrs. House has had eight husbands during her life of fifty years. Her first husband was Charles A. Anderson, who is now an immate of the Soldiers' Home at Newark. From this marriage there was one child, William Anderson, who is now in California.

The present charges are brought by Paul K. Redmon, her seventh husband, who contends that his wife and the man whom she now caims as her husband, Harry G. Carson, a telegraph operator, committed an assault upon him. Both are in the County Jall awaiting trial. Since the jury's verifict is to the effect that she is insane it is probable that she may be sent to the asylum without further ado.

that she is insane it is propose that she may be sent to the asylum without further ado.

Mrs. House, as she is generally called, has had an adventurous career. She is said to have killed Lawyer Orsen House, of Jersey City, in 1876, after having been married to him only a short time. Since then she has married five times and has won three divorces out of five contests. She was an inveterate letter-writer, and among those to whom she wrote were Robert G. Ingersoll, Chauncey Depew. President Cleveland, Secretary Gresham and many others, in her letters she tells a tale of wee, exaggerating her experiences many fold because of her filosyncracles. She imagined that she was possessed of the knowledge of the time for the end of the world and made a number of prophecies. She would deplore the fact that she was a Protestant, and said that religion was velucless because it did not prohibit divorces.
